

The countless multitude worships One King with one voice.

I. So many. So different. All together.

“Every nation” παντὸς ἔθνους encompasses all socio-political groups.

Every one of them has the same stance and purpose.

They stand before the throne.

II. The throne of God and the Lamb.

There is only one throne, for One King.

The Lamb is mentioned with God who is seated upon the throne in both 9 & 10.

There is an essential unity described here.

The unity in the massive crowd reflects the unity in the Godhead.

III. One voice of worship.

What is it that they scream so loud? Salvation (victory) belongs to our God!

The cry of this multitude is one: one voice, one cry, one praise. Stunning unity, considering the diversity represented.

The countless multitude worships One King with one voice.

How does this apply to me?
