

"Infant formula faith" is a great starting place, but not an acceptable ending place.

I. Basic principles are a great starting place for children.

They miss the glories of Christ b/c they are focused on the lesser things.

II. Solid food is expected and required for growth towards maturity.
(5:14 – 6:3)

Eating solid food means we study of the entire Word of God and see the splendor of our Savior on every page.

Eating solid food entails constant practice of the Word.

How does this apply to me?
